TO MRS. ANN BENNETT.

On the Death of her Daughter, Jennie.

Oh, permit not a tear of wild anguish to start
For the cold lifeless clay that lies under the sod;
But rejoice in the thought that an innocent heart
Has gone now to dwell with the Maker and God.

Think of the bright world and its unfolding bliss
Of the rapturous joy that is thrilling her soul,
And say if from Heav'n you would call her to this,
Where clerk clouds of sorrow unceasingly roll?

Let her drink the sweet notes of the bright harps of gold,
That are mingling to praise of the joyful Lamb,
Let her bask in the joys that have never been told,
And live in the light of the Mighty I Am.

Time's speeding on, and soon to your sight
Will appear the green line of the exile's shore;
Then, mother, there as an angel of light,
You'll clasp your lovely Jennie to bosom you no more.

Father and lover will wait for her sweet soul-rapt face
And then they'll clasp her in a long, sweet embrace;
They were separated by death on this mortal
To be united up there 'round the throne of their God.

MARY HARRIS ARMSTRONG.

Notes From the Capitol.

FRANKFORT, KY., Feb. 3rd.

Editor Herald:

The salary bill, which was made the special order for last Wednesday, in the House of Representatives, finally passed the House on Thursday evening by a vote of yeas 70, nays 20. It is passingly strange how the patriotism of some State officials has been aroused in consequence of this bill. Since the bill was first reported, they have been seriously discussing the probable effect of the passage of such a measure. Many, and serious, have been the predictions in regard to the future of the Commonwealth, when all the offices would be vacant, and none would be found "so poor as to do them reverence." In fact, one would have judged from the faces of some of the martyrs that starvation was already making its appearance within the gates of the Capitol. Even from the little town of Louisville the voice of mourning is heard, and a petition is hurried up "on the wings of the morning," praying Kentucky's Legislators to spare the Judiciary—the guardian of our liberties. Amendment after amendment was piled up on the clerk's desk. But the "hand-writing was upon the wall," and they were destined to go down. The bill as reported by the Committee on Retrenchment and Reform, was finally passed, with only one amendment, restoring the Salary of the Librarian to $1,000, the present salary. When the proposition was made some time since, to reduce the pay of Jurors and Justices of the Peace, those who have so earnestly opposed the reduction of the salaries of State officers, were the first then to cry out for "retrenchment." Truly, "consistency is a jewel." The cause which existed, and which was urged as a reason for the increase of salaries has passed away. War prices have vanished, money has become stable, and its purchasing power more than doubled, therefore it is a matter of justice as well as a matter of policy with this Legislature to reduce expenses, a thing which will inspire the people with confidence, disabuse their minds of the idea of a monied aristocracy, and check the growing mania for office seeking and office-holding. It was well remarked on the floor of the House, by Capt. Allen, of Caldwell county, that high "salaries tend to high living, and high living to corruption, and corruption to ruin."

A bill is now pending to reduce the per diem and mileage of the members of the Legislature.

The joint committee on education, in connection with the Superintendent, have been revising the school law, and have agreed to some changes, among them, a change of the school years from 6 to 20 years of age, as now, to 7 to 18 years. These, we regard as of doubtful propriety.

A bill is pending to repeal what is known as the "Turner Pistol Law," which prohibits peace officers from carrying concealed weapons.

A bill has passed the Senate repealing the "Iron-clad oath."

Memorials and petitions have come from the Green River counties, asking the General Assembly to repeal the act of March 1868, loaning the Green and Barren River Improvements to a corporation. This, we think, would be a righteous act. The people along the river have been deprived of the advantage of one of Nature's best gifts, and placed at the feet of a soulless corporation, and that without any consideration, The best river in the State, improved at an expense of $800,000 of the people's money, was simply placed in the hands of a company, without any remuneration.

The "gentleman from Clay"—Mr. White—is still making himself conspicuous and ridiculous by reason of his political harangues. The other 16 Republican members are reasonable and courteous, and have been highly complimented by Democrats on the floor for their courtesy and for their refusal to engage in the harangues of the "gentleman from Clay."

Hon. I. N. Boone, from Clark county, is the tallest member of the House, rising 6 feet 4 inches. He is a great-grandson of the illustrious pioneer, Daniel Boone, and never drank a drop of whisky, used tobacco, nor swore an oath in his life.

Mr. McDermot is the baby of the House, in size and appearance, though in debate he compares favorably with the sages of the Assembly.

This General Assembly seems to be inclined to work, and it is said that there is less drunkenness indulged in by members than usual.

Frankfort has many visitors, some lobbying for special legislation, and many attending hops and levees—which of course, are only intended to vindicate and perpetuate the dignity of this glorious commonwealth. This your correspondent would suggest as an additional reason for high salaries which has not been urged by the State officials, and others. OBSERVER.

Our Washington Letter.

The mask has been entirely torn off from the colored exodus movement, and there is no longer a pretense that it was anything but a political scheme. Senator Voorhees' committee has been engaged in the inquiry for some time, and a good deal of evidence pointing to the above conclusion has been taken, but the thing was most beautifully clinched on Monday of this week, when Charles N. Outtey, colored, the editor of the Washington Argus, gave his testimony. I would like to give his statement in full were it possible, but to briefly summarize: He said he was one of the founders of the National Emigrant Aid Society; the first intimation he had that the exodus movement was being worked up at both ends was when a member of the society laid before one of the meetings a proposition to "send about 5,000 into Indiana, as that was a doubtful State in the coming election." He then addressed letters to prominent colored men in North Carolina asking what was the cause of this sudden uprising. The replies came that there was no cause for it, and that the ignorant negroes were being led into it by three men named Perry, Williams and Taylor, who got up secret meetings and represented to the dupes that the Government wanted them to go to Indiana; that they would get $1 50 to $2 25 per day and new suits of clothes when they got to Washington. These three lying emissaries were the paid agents of the radical party. Mr. Outtey said that when he learned all these facts he withdrew from the society. He added that he lived conversed in North Carolina during the past few weeks with James H. Harris, Osborne Hunter, Jr., M. V. Turner and the other very prominent colored men, and with Governor Holden, Richard Badger and Colonel Ike Young, prominent radical Republicans, all fully in accord with the foregoing explanation of the real cause of the exodus. They all likewise agreed that the condition of the people of North Carolina is on the whole highly favorable, and there is no adequate incentive whatever for colored people to leave the State. "In fact," said the witness, "every intelligent colored man in the State is opposed to it, and the six colored newspapers of North Carolina are fighting it; and I say that, although an exodus from some of the Southern States may be a blessing, the exodus from North Carolina is a fraud and a curse."

Add to this the testimony of Judge Carleton, of Terre Haute, and we have all that is necessary to be said on the exodus question. The Judge said he was well acquainted with the people and with the condition of things in that portion of Indiana; there is no present demand for farm hands or any other kind of unskilled labor; on the contrary, there is an over supply, and the feeling of the people, including a number of old colored residents with whom he has conversed, is decidedly averse to the immigration of destitute colored people like the North Carolina immigrants in question, and especially as the general impression is that they are brought there only to vote.

General Sherman has got himself into a libel suit, and one in which the sympathy and sound sense of the community is all against him, notwithstanding his high position. Ever since General Boynton punctured his egotistical "Memoirs" by facts compiled from the records of the War Department and other reliable sources, General Sherman has shown a degree of vindictiveness towards him seldom exhibited by intelligent men. Recently Gen. Grant has sustained Boynton in his statement that Grant and not Sherman originated the plan of march to the sea, and this so revives the latter's anger that he charged Boynton in a newspaper interview with being culpable of any wickedness for money; that he could be bought for $1,000. General Boynton is the correspondent of the Cincinnatti Gazette, and one of the most cultivated, reliable and respected Journalist in Washington. Gen. Sherman has made himself the author of as unfruitful and coarse an attack upon a gentleman as has ever been published, and he ought to be made to suffer the penalty of his wickedness. Many men would have arrested him at once on a criminal charge, but Gen. Boynton has chosen the dignified part, and from respect for the high rank of his assailant, takes him before a tribunal where he can get a vindication without bringing any indignity upon the general of the army. The sun ought to be of interest to all newspaper correspondents here, for it is too much the habit of public men against whom any charge is brought by the newspapers to charge back that it is "only a newspaper lie;" that "newspaper men can be bought;" that "it is all for blackmail," etc., etc. The truth is, that astonishingly few false charges are made by the newspapers, and there are very men in Washington who are more trustworthy and careful in the discharge of their duties than the correspondents. They see a good deal of their tricks and rascalities in official and political life, and do not tell the half.

There is no telling yet how Secretary Schurz will come out in his negotiations with the Indians now here, but I think a peaceful solution of the difficulties will result. Yet any arrangement that does not secure a surrender and punishment of the brutes who committed murder and outrage will be unsatisfactory and wrong. Five of the chiefs here returned to Colorado to lay the plans of the Government before the tribe, and the others remain here till their return. They have all been furnished fine suits of clothes, and look quite slick. Before the departure of Sack and the others a grand powwow was held in the Indian bureau. Secretary Schurz, Commissioner Hayt and other officials joined hands with their red brethren, and danced in a circle to slow music. Ouray gave some of the fancy movements which he saw at the Black Crook. Secretary Schurz, when his time came for doing a "single turn," danced a Dutch clog, and Commissioner Hayt sang, "Baptist, baptist, eating baptist pie." PHOXO.

Cerulvo Items.

CERULVO, KY., Feb. 3rd, 1880.

Editor Herald:

After several days of unusually mild weather for the time of the year, during which our ears have been saluted with the spring-like(?) music of the toad-frog, we, at last, have a quietus for such summer-wooing proceedings in the shape of biting winds, and a new edition of the "Beautiful Snow." We guess that some of our thrifty farmers, who have been inquiring after clover and other seeds, will not now be in much of a hurry to sow them. Some preparations had been made for sowing tobacco seed, but the weather demands a halt.

We have several cases of measles in the county around us, but as yet none in our town. There have been three fatal cases near Centertown—two children of John I. Ashby, and Miss Mary E. Ashby, daughter of Jesse Ashby. W. I. Rowe and his family have had a serious time with the speckled scourge, but we hear that they are all getting better. L. C. Morton didn't want 'em, but we hear he has 'em all the same. Cass never would be behind his neighbors, much.

Mr. C. M. Kimbley's school at this place closed last Friday. We believe every pupil had either a "speech" or an essay, and they acquitted themselves well. Miss Lizzie Iler gave the salutatory, and Mr. P. L. Wood gave us "Maud Muller," and was heartily cheered. Miss Lizzie Everly, Mr. Bryant Stearman and others, deserve special mention, but I will not take up so much of your space. The young men who kept "back" to attend the school, have scattered out, and we are a little lonely without them.

The beautiful steamer Bowling Green, has lately come from the docks as bright as a new pin. The extremely popular Capt., Elmore Bewley, yet treads her roof as master. We greatly regret the retirement of her first clerk, Mr. C. M. Coombs, who, by his pleasant, courteous manners, has won many warm friends along the river. He retires of his own accord, to go into the grocery business at Bowling Green, and we hope he may be successful, as such a polished gentleman deserves to be. Mr. Hoffman takes charge of the office as first clerk, with Mr. Sam Coombs as second clerk.

Mr. E. W. Rathebge, of Rockport, has rented the Barnard hotel at this place, and will move in this week. He contemplates keeping a bar in connection with the hotel.

Mr. L. P. Downs has moved into his new house just above town, on the other side of the river.

A wicked mule killed an ox for Mr. J. S. Graves, a few nights ago. The ox was tied, and the mule loose in the same lot. Nothing is positively known as to the mule's motives; but it may have been that the good price for hides tempted him to commit the kick-ous crime.

Some friends of Miss Mollie L. Davis, of Nashville, Tennessee, have been honored with cards of invitation to her wedding in that city, February 19th, at 6. P. M. Mr. Trimble, of Russellville, Alabama, is to be the happy bridegroom. We hope for Miss Mollie a future as bright as her own sunny disposition—and would eat some of the cake if we had it.

Mr. R. H. Jones paid a visit to his daughter, Mrs. Elliott, in Christian county, week before last.

Miss Mattie Coffman is visiting relatives in McLean county, near Island Station.

Mrs. Alice Kimbly, of Hoggs Falls neighborhood, is visiting Dr. Everly's family and other friends here.

Miss Bettie Iler, daughter of T. M. Iler, has lately gone to Grayson county to teach a school there. We hope she may find her new avocation pleasant and profitable.

Miss Cinda Baxter, of Muhlenberg county, is visiting Judge Tinsley and family.

Misses Sue Jones, Amanda and Laura Rowe, and Sudie White, of Centertown, and the Misses Mizella and Laura Williams, of Walton's Creek, honored our town with their presence during the past week. Come again, ladies, and stay longer next time.

Miss Nannie Morton has finished her school in Muhlenberg county, and returned home with the prospect of a school here, to begin the first of next month. She has a splendid reputation for success in teaching. LELAND.

"Pro Bono Publico."

FEBRUARY 2, 1880.

Editor Herald:

In answer to "Pro Bono Publico's" last tirade, I would simply state that the gentleman has suddenly become very voluminous. It would appear as though he had swallowed all the words in Webster's unabridged dictionary, which, after having become soured upon his prejudiced stomach, he vomited forth on poor unfortunate popes and priests. His hatred for those, ansisted of God, prevented him from adhering to the main question on docket, namely, as he said in his first tirade: "The Catholic Church has always been opposed to free education." It was shown him conclusively that the above assertion was basely false, by the fact that Catholics at the same time that they paid the tax which the State unjustly extorted from them for the support of the free schools; they also built their own schools, colleges, universities, etc., and even "P. B. P." acknowledged the corn when he confessed "that the Catholic schools of this county are of a much higher grade than those described by Mr. "H." Who in the common sense is this Mr. "H?" Is he a historian? Certainly not (exit Mr. "H.") Now, if "P. B. P." and his one-sided man, "H." will lay aside a little of their prejudice they will see that the Church uses the same care and diligence in regard to the education of her children in every country on the face of the globe, where "the Carbonari the Communes, the Besotted Victor Emmanuels, or the idiotic Bismarcks" and other fools have not deprived the Church of her schools and sent to prison or to exile her venerable bishops, priests, and teachers

Such from time to time has been the case in Spain, Italy, England, Ireland, France, parts of Russia, and to-day in Germany. I repeat it, then, sir, the Catholic Church is not opposed to free education. In order to substantiate my propositions let the following facts speak for themselves. They are the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. Facts do not lie like men. Does the Catholic Church object to public schools or free education as evil in themselves? No. The Catholic Church is the founder of public schools, as she is the fosterer and guardian of education in all history. It is only the ignorant who stupidly deny this historic fact. The Church never has and never will lose sight of Christ's command to His Apostles, namely: "To teach all nations." Let us go back and inquire into the origin of free public schools. We take the following extract on the subject from a book entitled, "National Education in Europe," by Henry Bernard, L. L. D., Superintendent of the common schools in Connecticut. He says: "But not in Germany, or to any other people, or any civil authority anywhere, but in the Catholic Church belongs the higher credit of first instituting the public schools for elementary education of the poor, which was the earliest form which this mighty element of society assumed. After the third century of the Christian era, whenever a church was planted or religious institutions were established there it was the aim of higher ecclesiastical authority to found in some form a school for the nurture of children and youths for the service of religion and society. "A Council at Rome in 826, under Pope Eugene II, ordained that there should be three kinds of schools established through Christiendom: Episcopal, Parochial in towns and villages, and others wherever there could be found place and opportunity. In 826 also, Lothaire I promulgated a decree to establish eight schools in some of the principle cities of Italy in order that opportunity may be given to all, and that there may be no excuse drawn from poverty and the difficulty of repairing to remote places." The decrees of the third Council of Latern in 1179 and that of Pope Innocent III in the year 1215 were somewhat similar to the above. Such was the origin of the popular school, as now generally understood, everywhere the offspring and companion of the Church. And yet a certain promotor of the people's welfare tells us that the Popes and Priests are opposed to education and have always tried to crush it whenever they had the power. "Lord, Lord, how this world is given to lying!"—Falstaff, Act 5, Henry IV. The Catholic Church then, is not opposed to free education, but she is opposed to the present system of education, which some designing politicians and book-peddlers are trying to disseminate in this country and many parts of Europe. "Pro Bono Publico" must remember that the Church is not alone in this opposition. As a sample of how the current of public Protestant opinion is begining to flow, read the following extract from a recent number of the "Journal of Commerce:" "The fact that Roman Catholics have been the first to take alarm at the godless character of the common schools and to drag their children into parochial establishments where the special dogmas of their church may be impressed on the youthful mind, instead of exciting so much public clamor against this particular church, ought to stir up every Protestant Christian to see if there is not a foundation for such a movement of even more vital importance to the well being of his own family and the other children of the State. "This is the great lesson of the controversy. The true question is not how to prevent Catholics from educating their own children after their own method, but how to establish for children of other parentage a system of education that shall be worthy of the name, etc., etc.

All the glowing statistics furnished P. B. P., by the bigoted Mr. H., concerning the illiteracy of the Catholics of Italy, are all bosh. Only let anyone procure the United States census report of 1860, and take the six States, namely, Massachusetts and the other five New England States, and compare the illiteracy of many other citizens with that of the kingdom of Italy, and I'll vouch for it, Mr. H. will be branded as a fool. Because some few Catholics here and there cannot read and write, what does this prove? Does this prove that the church is opposed to education? No, but then P. B. P. just wanted to have some excuse to say that the great mass of Catholics in our large cities are only fit for draydrivers, hodcarries, brakesmen and deckhands. How are you? draydrivers, hodcarriers, etc. "O, ye Gods and little fishes, behold such a chopping up and hashing of logic!" My dear sir, P. B. P., the above occupations are honorable, yes! and they become sublimely so, when compared with your occupation, namely, that of knowingly wishing to deceive the worthy people among whom you have the privilege to reside. Did you reflect that you knowingly and intentionally told a falsehood when you asserted "that the difference between the clergy of the Catholic church and the ministers of other churches, is that when a minister of any of the other churches is overtaken in any crime, he is summarily dealt with, and deposed from the ministry." What do you mean by deposed? Is it that after his crime being heralded to the public in some of the daily sheets, and after having gained some cool-fish notoriety, he is received back again with open arms, and has his salary raised exempla gratia. Count 'em. But that there ever was an instance where a priest, after having been detected in any crime whatsoever, was removed from the place of his crime to another place, and still permitted to the priestly functions is an infamous lie. Let the maligner give even one instance if he dares. Let him tell the place where such a priest was taken from, and the place to which he was sent.

We now pass to cruel Spain and the bloody shirt Inquisition. But what is this Inquisition? If it is what P. B. P. tries to make believe it is, we Americans had better be on the look out, for if Cardinal McCloksky, of New York, and Bishop Purcell, of Cincinnati, compell us Catholics to vote, and try to elect the Pope as President of this country, and if we should elect him, you know, he might come over here with all his bachelor priests and all his illiterate subjects of Rome. Then when the Pope would have full sway, he would send out a herald some morning to proclaim that if all of us Americans didn't count our beads and use holy water freely, there would be nothing left of us before night, but a grease spot. It must be remembered that the Catholic church had nothing to do with the Inquisition of the Spanish Government. On the contrary, she always denounced its cruelties. Blood-shed and persecution form no part of the creed of the Catholic church. Before P. B. P. can convict the church of Intolerance, he must first bring forward some authentic act of her popes or councils sanctioning the policy of vengeance. The authors of the Inquisition were, it is true, children of the church, and sometimes exercised their enormities in her name, but what of it? Is it just or fair to hold the church responsible for those acts of her children whom she disowns? No one can denounce liberty as a mockery because many crimes are committed in her name. Neither can anyone hold a father accountable for the sins of his disobedient children. It should also be borne in mind that the Spaniards were the only people who have prescribed men for the exercise of their religious belief. If P. B. P. calmly studied the history of other nations, his enmity towards Spain will relax, he shall have to reserve for his neighbors a part of his awful indignation.

It must not be forgotten that John Calvin burned Michael Servetus at the stake for heresy, and the Arch Reformer not only avowed, but also justified the deed in his writings, and established in Geneva an Inquisition for the punishment of refractory Christians. Luther, of whom "P. B. P." is a disciple, advocated the most merciless cruelties and doctrines toward the Jews. According to his apologist, Seckendorf, the German Reformer, said that their Synagogues should be destroyed, their houses pulled down, their prayer-books, and even the books of the old Testament, to be taken away from them. Look at history and see the state of England under the reign of Henry VIII and his successors for many generations. Look at Ireland, Holland, Scotland, and many other places. If "P. B. P." wishes to see an impartial account of the Inquisition, I refer him to the "letters on the Spanish Inquisition," by the Count de Maister.

Let us now step from the Inquisition to the Infallibility of the Pope, about which our friend "P. B. P." knows as much as a two year old child. The Infallibility of the Popes does not signify that they are inspired. The Apostles were endowed with the gift of Inspiration, and we receive their writings as the revealed word of God. Infallibility does not mean that the Pope is impeachable or specially exempt from sin. History attests that the Popes have been indeed (with exceptions) men of virtuous lives. Many of them are honored as martyrs. Seventy-nine of the two hundred and sixty that sat on the chair of Peter are invoked upon our altars as Saints, eminent for their holiness The enemies of the church charge only five or six Popes with immorality. Thus even admitting the truth of the accusation brought against them, we have forty-three virtuous to one bad Pope, while there was a Judas Iscariot among the twelve Apostles. But although some of the sovereign Pontiffs should have been so unfortunate as to lead vicious lives, this circumstance would not of itself impair the validity of their prerogatives, which are given, not for the preservation of their morals, but for the guidance of their judgment for there was a Balaam among the Prophets, and a Caiphas among the High Priests of the old law. The Pope, remember, is not infallible when he expresses his own ideas, but he is infallible when, as the head of the church, he defines truths contained in the depository of Revelations, the scriptures and tradition. The Pope is not infallible when he judges purely personal questions, but he is so when he judges doctrinal questions, affecting faith and morals—that is to say, revealed truths on revealed law, the Pope being infallible only when he rests upon the testimony of God and Revelation. The rest of "P. B. P's." matter is rather flat, and composed of green cheese. Any one desiring to see the fallacy of the remnant of his article may send to Mr. Rogers, bookseller, 37 Jefferson street, Louisville, and get Cardinal Manning's, and Cardinal Newman's "Answers to Gladstone's Pamphlet," from whence "P. B. P." copied most of his objections to Infallibility.

From Another Catholic.

LITCHFIELD, KY., Feb. 2, 1880.

Editor Herald:

In my reply to "Pro Bono Publico's" attack on the Catholics of this place, I wish to set him right and show him and your readers that the Catholics of Litchfield had not, as a body, or in consequence of their being Catholics, voted against the tax on the town for building a school-house. The manner of the attack might have taught me the futility of replying, yet I thought that the man would certainly listen to a disclaimer, especially as my position (being one of them) entitled me to claim that I knew what I averred. I repeat that his assertion was unfounded, and that if a large number, even of Catholics, (which is not the case) had voted against the tax they would have done so in the exercise of their rights as citizens according to their own private judgment, and not from any behest from their Priest or Pope. The flippancy with which he charges me with ignorance, or what is worse—falsehood, speaks volumes for him, he (P. B. P.) knows more than any Catholic, be he Priest or layman, of what we believe, and his bigoted assertion only shows the very Christian manner of the man. I repeat, and that emphatically, that no teaching or tenet of Catholic doctrine enforces or commands any other submission than in spiritual matters, and I believe Mr. P. is aware of the fact. It is scarcely possible that he could be ignorant of this—it has been so often charged, and has so often been disproved, nothing but a deliberate resolution to malign us, could have prompted such a course of calumny and falsehood. The statistics he quotes are lengthy, and the source from which they are drawn so questionable that I shall not review them. I am willing to institute a comparison with him in this way, that our congregation here and his (should he belong to any sect,) be numbered, the average education will show which are best fitted for the occupations he scorns so much. He may take the foreign element of this, or any other Catholic parish, and I will abide by the result. It will be easily conceded that the Catholic church does not enrich men in this world's goods, nor, in this country especially, does it confer high social positions, but when we think that our Savior chose the Twelve Apostles among fishermen and others of low degree, we, P. B. P. and I, might easily calm our aristocratic blood sufficiently to worship with and see Christian brothers in even as low characters as brakesmen, hodcarriers, &c. Pro Bono Publico's facts are fancies, his arguments such as to excite wonder and pity at the diseased mind that could stoop to such depths for the purpose of fostering prejudice, and keeping alive religious animosities. A CATHOLIC.

Grayson County.

LITCHFIELD, KY., Jan. 29.

Editor Herald:

The fair weather and sunshine are giving quite a cheerful appearance to things, after the long season of sombre clouds and gloom, the roads are drying up again, and the farmers are beginning to turn their attention from staves and hoop-poles to their farms again.

BUSINESS.

Our enterprising merchants are doing a fine business. Dick Cannon, at Evans & Staadaker's, sold a bill of more than $100 worth of goods to one man last week, and the same day Mathew Cunningham, at the same house, was kept from his dinner all day, waiting on customers. Mat says he likes business, but that was too much of a good thing.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. T. S. Gardiner returned home last week from a visit to her father's, Dr. Pusey, of Meade county, and her sister, Miss Pusey came with her.

Rev. R. F. Orr, is at Hardinsburg this week, assisting Dr. Lambuth in a series of meetings.

HE FORKED OVER.

Deputy Sheriff Gardiner laid violent hands on a mule belonging to a man who would not pay his taxes, last week, and the gentleman soon forked over taxes, and a dollar extra for trouble.

BORN.

Born to the wife of Mr. Dent, of this place, on the night of the 21st, a girl.

Wheat fields are looking well.

Plows are being sharpened up for spring use.

Ice men are in despair, but still the weather is unrelenting. Icehouses look sadly out of place in a country where 'tis always summer.

Miss Nannie McClure is at home on a short visit.

Our Representative, Burdine Beauchamp, passed through town Saturday, en route to his home.

John Meyers, who has been incarcerated in the Grayson county jail, on the charge of bigamy, has been removed to Hopkinsville, being found to be insane.

THE HERALD.

JNO. P. BARRETT, - - - EDITOR.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 11, 1880.

THE "skulp" law has at last been repealed by both Houses.

THE Henderson News tells of a "poor widow lady". Sam, have you any poor widow men down your way?

MEASLES are raging here in a violent form.—Madisonville Times.

How many are raging, Zeno?

THE K. M. I. News came to us this week printed upside down. We guess the foreman was a little off.

GROVE KENNEDAY has again been tried and sentenced this time to the penitentiary for 21 years instead of for life as before.

THE Legislature has fixed upon next Wednesday, the 18th, to elect a public printer. There are three avowed candidates.

MARRIED, in San Diego, California, December 25, 1879, Mr. James Loving and Miss Amanda Good. We hope he will make a Loving husband, and she a Good wife.

We regret to learn that Mr. L. Rosenberg, our popular merchant, is going to leave us. He will go to Columbia, Tennessee, where he will engage in the mercantile business.

THE Republicans of Washington, D. C., chose delegates to the Chicago Convention last Saturday. One Blaine and one Grant delegate were chosen, and two Grant alternates. Grant leads.

THE House amended Senator Hill's bill, and fixed the minimum amount which could be appealed, from the Circuit to the Court of Appeals, at $100. The Senate concurred in the amendment.

WE are in receipt of the 2nd issue of the Pioneer, published at Dixon, Ky., by Sale & Cook, and edited by Ellen L. Sale. The paper is a five column folio and is devoted to the interest of the Greenback party.

THE present February came in on Sunday, and hence will have five Sundays. Our calendographer has been consulted, and he says the same thing occurs every 28 years, and hence will happen again in 1908.

THE Republicans of Clark county instructed their delegates to the Louisville convention to vote for Blaine and Ben. Harrison as their choice for President and Vice President. They instructed for Grant and Harrison as second choice.

THE latest sensation is the report that Sam'l J. Tilden is to be married to Miss Fannie Rauck, of Lewisburg, Pa. If the report proves true, he will take Ranck, although cheated out of his seat as President. Uncle Sammy denies the soft impeachment.

WE have received "The Gavel," a monthly Masonic magazine, published at Danville, Ky., by Marrs & Thomas. It is neatly and elegantly gotten up, and is just such a work as will meet the wants of the craft. Every Mason should have it. Terms $1 per annum. We welcome it as an exchange.

THE Republican State Convention for New York, will be held on the 25th inst., at Utica, and the prospects are bright for Grant to carry the State. With the two largest States in the Union for him, the boom will grow until he will have but little opposition at Chicago, but look out for it when he comes before the people.

THE Legislative committee to investigate the penitentiary have reported it in a fearful condition. The prisoners have not been furnished with a sufficiency of wholesome food and suitable clothing. They have been whipped cruelly and unmercifully, and the committee recommend the Governor to remove the keeper, J. W. South.

THE Legislature began at the wrong "eend" to retrench and reform, though it looks as though they would keep on until they got to the 'tother eend." They first cut down Magistrates' fees for holding levy courts to $2 per day, which was already small enough. Two dollars a day will not pay the hotel and livery bill of the Magistrate who attends levy court, and if he goes home every night half the day is taken up in going to and fro. Hence the session will be prolonged twice as long as otherwise and will make $2 per day one-fourth more expensive than $3. The bill to cut down from $3 to $2 has passed both Houses.

WE call the attention of our readers, and the voters of Ohio county especially, to the announcement of E. R. Murrell, candidate for clerk of Circuit Court of Ohio county. He is one of the very best and most correct clerks in the State; has had large experience, having been Deputy County Clerk for a number of years, also clerk of Quarterly Court, and has been Master Commissioner of the Ohio Circuit Court for a long time. He has not a superior in the county, as a neat correct clerk or book keeper. He has always voted the Democratic ticket, and as will be seen his announcement, is subject to the action of the Democratic party.

OHIO county "regulators" whipped "one Stewart" so badly that he died from the effects the next day. They also whipped one Flenor, carried him to Green river, told him to cross and never return. Bundles of hickories were left at the doors of several houses and notices to the parties to leave. And this is a free State! Perhaps the Legislature and Governor can turn out a few more scoundrels on society?—Louisville Democrat.

This is news to the citizens of this county. The "regulators" whipped Stewart, but not severe enough to kill him. News grows as it travels, and these would-be "regulators will give our county a bad name abroad. They should be regulated themselves, if they continue to violate law.

HON. H. D. MCHENRY will leave next Sunday for Washington city, to attend a meeting of the National Democratic Executive Committee, to fix a time and place for holding the Presidential Convention. Mr. McHenry is the Kentucky member of the National Committee.

The First Blood for Grant.

The Republican Convention of the State of Pennsylvania, at Harrisburg, on last Wednesday, as predicted by us, instructed to cast the entire vote of that State for U. S. Grant in the Chicago Convention. Thus has Grant received a boom that will probably end in his nomination, though we are somewhat doubtful about it.

How to Win.

If the Democrats are desirous of winning the next Presidential election, they should have their Senators and Representatives in Congress agitate the tariff question. The Democrats favor a reduction of tariff, and the Republicans are opposed to it. The masses of people are for a very low tariff, and the Democrats in Congress can bring that question to the front and win on it next fall. They have already been moving that way. The committee on "Ways and Means," have voted to reduce the tariff on steel rails from 28 to $14. The vote stood, eight for it, all Democrats; five opposed, all Republicans. The people are for a low tariff, or none at all. An evidence of this is the popularity of Jim McKenzie's "Quinine Bill."

Take Greeley's Advice.

Kentucky politicians who feel themselves unappreciated should not be reluctant in moving to some other State. There is some assurance that lightning may strike them elsewhere, from the fact that twenty-one of the present Congressmen were born in the Cornecracker State—Paducah News.

Remarkable Law Suit.

The Green-Hargis law suit now on trial at Louisville, from the way it starts off, bids fair to be a most remarkable case. The defendant is sued because he would not bring a slander suit. It was brought in a county where defendant neither resided nor was served with process. The law requires a short specific statement of a case to the jury before the testimony is begun. It took three days to state this case. 5,000 pages of depositions are to be read, besides the oral testimony, and then from 5 to 15 lawyers on a side, are to argue it. We hope they will get through in time for the November election to be held in the court room.

Our Fair.

As announced for some time passed, our fair came off on Friday last. From the time we announced the day, up to the time of holding the fair, a period of five or six weeks, tobacco was not in good order, and it was next to impossible to get it in order so as to bring it in, yet there were 57 entries of the Indian weed, and a very fine display for the crop of 1879, which is a small, as well as an inferior crop. There were 85 entries of corn, and a better display we never saw anywhere.

The samples were received and numbered by noon, and after noon the judges went to work awarding premiums.

H. J. C. Lindley, Alfred Ashby, Sr., J. B. Bennett, Wm. Shull and F. B. Wise were selected to award the premiums on corn.

R. P. Hare, Henry Glover, J. P. Vaughan, of Louisville; Geo. H. Simmons and W. H. Murphy, of Owensboro, all representatives of Louisville tobacco warehouses, and all well posted tobacco men, were selected to award the premiums on tobacco.

While the judges were at work Mr. V. M. Metcalfe, of Hopkinsville, addressed quite a large number of farmers and citizens generally at the Methodist Church upon agricultural chemistry. He spoke for two hours and had the most marked attention. He is well posted upon this subject, and talks to the point. He set them to thinking and his lecture will undoubtedly result in good. After the conclusion the audience adjoured to the court house, and the judges having completed their labors, the lucky names were called out, and each came forward and received his premium as follows:

HEAD CORN—FIRST PREMIUM.

J. C. & E. P. Thomas,.....$25 00

SECOND PREMIUM.

J. C. & E. P. Thomas,..... 10 00

THIRD PREMIUM.

G. W. Patterson,..... 5 00

STOCK CORN—FIRST PREMIUM.

Robert Rowe,..... 25 00

SECOND PREMIUM.

R. A. Patton,..... 10 00

THIRD PREMIUM.

J. C. & E. P. Thomas,..... 5 00

MANUFACTURING TOBACCO—FIRST PREMIUM.

H. J. C. Lindley,.....$25 00

SECOND PREMIUM.

Sanford Tichenor, ..... 10 00

THIRD PREMIUM.

G. W. Patterson,..... 5 00

CUTTING LEAF—FIRST PREMIUM.

J. F. Head, of Daviess county.....$25 00

SECOND PREMIUM.

Eli Martin,..... 10 00

THIRD PREMIUM.

R. P. Crabtree, ..... 5 00

STEMMING LEAF—FIRST PREMIUM.

G. W. Patterson,.....$25 00

SECOND PREMIUM.

G. W. Patterson,..... 10 00

THIRD PREMIUM.

J. H. Patton,..... 5 00

There was a large number in attendance, and considerable excitement and enthusiasm was manifested as the premiums were handed out. Just at this juncture Mr. J. Edwin Rowe at the instance of some of the competitors moved to donate the samples of corn and tobacco to us to partly reimburse us for the premiums. It was voted unanimously, with one or two exceptions, whereupon we stated that those who wished to could withdraw their samples. Two or three took their tobacco samples after which the remaining samples were sold to the highest bidder and was purchased by W. G. Head, agent for G. Vaughan & Co., at 9¼ cents per pound. The samples brought $32, and according to the original programme, would give each sample a credit of 45 cents. We sold the corn for $13, which will give a credit to each sample of 15 cents, after paying for removing the same. All competitors not satisfied with the action that evening, can get the credit according to the original programme, by calling on us.

Taking into consideration the terrible condition of the roads, the great amount of sickness, the harsh condition of the weather, and the fair was a big success in the way of a display of corn and tobacco and a crowd.

We put forth our utmost endeavor to have everything conducted fairly. We believe that with one or two exceptions, entire satisfaction was given. There were three entries of tobacco that should have been classed as cigar wrappers. These entries were made by D. S. C. Tichenor, J. L. Ralph and W. H. Blankenship, but there was no premium offered for this class, there being so little of that class of tobacco grown in this section. The judges said Mr. Tichenor's entry was the best; and Col. Ion B. Nall gave him a premium of the Farmer's Home Journal, for one year. In manufacturing tobacco, Uncle Sanford Tichenor got second premium, and the judges said would have got entitled first had not his tobacco been fired so heavily. Uncle Sanford is lucky, having taken a $20 premium at our last fair.

Mr. Garton B. Pettit came within one vote of getting third premium on bread corn.

We are indebted to Mr. J. T. Ighehart for valuable assistance rendered throughout, and to the gentlemen who awarded premiums, we tender our kindest thanks. To Mr. V. M. Metcalfe, we feel greatly indebted, and not only we, but all in attendance, are thankful for the sensible, logical speech.

Notes From the Capitol.

FRANKFORT, KY., Feb. 7th.

Editor Herald:

Since our last writing quite a number of important measures have been introduced, and a greater number of them have been re-committeed or postponed. In fact it occurs to your correspondent that the House is disposed to defer everything except turnpike charters, or amendments to same, and whenever a bill is passed and sent to the Senate, that august body of course must amend it, so I am finally led to conclude that if the "Lord's prayer" was adopted some one would move to amend it, or probably offer a substitute for it. A great deal of legislation has been cut, and the committees are working very continuously.

On Thursday morning last, Capt. C. T. Allen, Chairman of the Committee on State Prisons, offered a report on State Prison, which was read and ordered to be printed. It sets out that the present state of the prison is deplorably bad, and attributes the condition to four causes, viz:

1st. To the over-crowded condition of the prison.

2nd. To defective sewerage.

3rd. To a general want of cleanliness about the yards, buildings, &c.

4th. To a want of proper diet for the convicts.

The report goes on to charge that the keeper in open defiance of law, has worked convicts on farms, and at work outside the walls of the prison, and that he has failed to provide proper food, and proper precautions against diseases, and that he has forfeited his claims upon, and violated his obligations to the Commonwealth, and they further recommend that a joint resolution be passed requiring the Governor to remove the keeper, and appoint some person or persons to take charge of the prison until the Legislature can make further provision by law. The report is denounced by some as being premature, and it is evident that there will be lively work on this matter. The reading of the report created quite an excitement, both in the House and in the Lobbies. Action on the report and resolution was deferred until next Wednesday, at which time there will likely be an exciting debate.

Your correspondent will not prejudge the case, but will only say in relation to the committee making the report, that it is good material—as good as there is in the House. Capt. Allen, of Caldwell, Chairman, is an able, firm, and fearless legislator; Judge Bord, of this city, is noted for his remarkable prudence and considerate demeanor. The same may be said of the other members of the committee.

The same committee has introduced a bill to provide for the erection of a branch penitentiary.

A bill has passed both Houses requiring manufacturers of oleomargine or butterine, to brand with a suitable mark all packages of their manufacture. A large establishment for the manufacture of oleomargine, a substitute for butter, has been recently opened in Louisville, and specimen packages of it have been sent to the hotels and boarding houses in this city. This law is to prevent imposition in the sale of it.

A bill has passed the House providing for the payment of jurors in magistrates, police, and quarterly courts. It provides that the number may be reduced to 6, and have 50 cents for each case, not to have pay, however, in more than two cases in any one day.

A bill has passed the House making "provoking, insulting or abusive language," intended to bring on an assault a misdemeanor, punishable by fine of from twenty to fifty dollars. Bills have been introduced, but postponed, requiring the sheriffs to pay the revenue in earlier, and providing for an abatement of 5 per cent for prompt payment, and for the adding on 4 per cent in case of deferred payment. Some of these provisions we regard as of doubtful propriety.

A bill has been introduced to reduce the pay of Assessors from 15 to 12 cents per list. Postponed.

Also a bill reducing pay of witnesses in Commonwealth's cases to 50 cents per day, and that only after indictments have been made. Went into orders of the day. Also a bill to reduce salary of Auditor from $2,000 to $1,500, and clerks in the Auditor's office, salaries from $800 to 600. Postponed.

A bill has passed both Houses to repeal the "scalp law." Mourning is heard from the mountains.

The report of the Commission appointed at the last session of the Legislature to locate the Agricultural and Mechanical College, was adopted, locating same at Lexington.

A joint resolution has passed the House, condemning extravagant printing by the late Superintendent of Public Instruction.

An act has passed both Houses amending an act in relation to the "graded school" at Hartford.

A bill has been introduced reducing the number and pay of guards for prisoners while being conveyed to the Penitentiary. Postponed.

A bill originated in the Senate, raising the amount in controversy upon which appeals could be taken from the Circuit Courts to the Court of Appeals, from 50 to $150, was amended in the House by inserting $100 instead of $150.

A bill has passed both Houses allowing Clerks of Circuit, Criminal and County Courts, the further time of two years to collect their back fees, provided they do not go back further than five years.

The leaves did not fall quite so fast this morning. Petitions still come in for new counties, but their prayers will certainly not be heard. The fate of Blackburn county, awaits all others, and such should be the case.

Hon. McCreary occupied a seat by the side of the Speaker this morning.

Frankfort presents a wintry scene.

OBSERVER.

Commuoicated.

HARTFORD, KY., Feb. 9, 1880.

Editor Herald:

I have contemplated for some time to give publicity to my humble opinion of the great good your paper is doing for our county. I am a constant reader of the HERALD, am always glad when Wednesday comes to read the news both local and foreign. It would seem that I am very partial to the HERALD. If so, I think it well founded. I have the pleasure of reading a great many of your exchanges from all parts of the State (which you so kindly give my husband) and I am clearly of the opinion that your paper excels any other county paper I have read, and I frequently see extracts from the HERALD in the leading city papers. I really do think that, notwithstanding the large circulation I am informed it has in Ohio county, the true interest of the people would be to double and even treble its circulation in this county, the consequence would be, in my humble opinion, the doubling, and perhaps the trebling of the prosperity of the county.

And Messrs. Editors, will you gratify me to insert in the HERALD the following extract, copied from the Bible, the holy book of God:

"They send forth their little ones like a flock and their children dance. They take the timbrel and harp and rejoice at the sound of the organ. They spend their days in wealth and in a moment go down to the grave. Therefore they say unto God, depart from us for we desire not the knowledge of Thy ways. What is the Almighty that we should serve him? and what profit should we have if we pray unto him." In conclusion you see I quote two lines from Burns to his young friend:

Perhaps it may turn out a song,
Perhaps a sermon.

Hoover Hill.

HOOVER HILL, Feb. 5.

Editor Herald:

We have a nice six-inch snow under foot and, consequently, a great many are now enjoying the sport of sleighing, while others are hunting and still more doing nothing.

Mr. Simpson King, a young man of this neighborhood, who has been absent for two years past, traveling and at work in different places in Mo. and Ill., and, according to his own statement, been greatly exposed to bad weather, undergoing many hardships comparatively unknown to him previously in his old Kentucky home, has inconsequence returned, suffering from bad health. Dr. C. Bates, attending physician, pronounces his ailment as a type of malarial dropsy, which was inevitably brought on by exposure. We hope to soon see him about again.

There is still numerous cases of mumps in this locality and in many instances are very severe. We also anticipate the measles in our community soon, as it is very prevalent in adjacent localities, we learn.

Mr. Oren Lemon Bowen has recently retired from your city and taken up his abode with Mr. Amos Shown, of Sarviess' Hill. Not married yet, Mr. Bowen.

"Why, I'd limit some nice young widow
And with a hope to win
I would simply pop the question
To hear her say—Yes Sir."

Mr. Lucien Ambrose, while absent last Monday, had three sheep killed by dogs. Mr. A. has since killed one of the dogs engaged in the mischief and of course has on hand a good supply of mutton.

Our young friend, Mr. Lafayette Bennett, of Beda, has been employed by Mr. W. Yeiser as an assistant in his black smith shop at Pleasant Ridge. We congratulate Mr. Yeiser on securing the services of one so competent to satisfactorily perform the duties of that profession.

Your correspondent was present at a Pound party at the residence of Mrs. Allen Johnson Thursday night, which was an occasion much enjoyed and long to be remembered by the young ladies and gentlemen attending, about sixty in number. The supper was simply elegant in every respect, embracing dishes of a remarkable variety and so tastefully arranged by the Misses Zeredla, Lizzie and Fannie Johnson that no one could, including the most fastidious, resist an admiration for the lovely spectacle spread before them. The music by the French and Latheran string band was perfectly charming in melody and added much to the enjoyment of the evening.

Mr. J. F. Rice, the stage driver, came up in his new wagon last trip, which is an elegantly constructed vehicle, beautifully painted, etc., and quite an improvement over his old one, for the accommodation of passengers. We think Mr. Rice deserves great credit for his enterprise on this road.

Our school at Sarviess' Hill has closed and we began another series of lessons at the Chapman school house on Monday night last. We are glad to note the interest accumulating in the attainment of a practical knowledge in such an indispensable art as penmanship should be regarded at the present time.

Lovely Dale Doings.

LOVELY DALE, OHIO CO., Feb. 4, 1880.

Editor Herald:

Since we last wrote you we have changed our residence and place of business from Wilson's Mills to this place.

News is scarce.

The health of this community is very good with the exception of Mrs. C. N. Bean, who is quite low with something bordering on consumption.

The prospect for a good wheat crop, to the extent of our travels, is quite encouraging to say the least of it. The breadth sown last fall is perhaps from 20 to 30 per cent. greater than was sown the year previous.

Some of the tobacco growers have already sown large seed-beds (for the growing of tobacco plants) and from what we can learn, there will be a strong effort put forth for a good tobacco crop. We say good because we mean it, for our tobacco growers are beginning to learn that there is something in quality as well as quantity.

New Baymus is always up with the times. There is formed at that place a debating society that meets regularly once a week. While none of our speakers have yet attained to the perfection of Webster, Clay, or Calhoun, yet there is some good speeches made on almost every occasion, and we are sure that it will lead to profound thought and much research, and consequently to the improvement of the minds of our youths. At the last meeting speeches were made by John A. Bennett, Thos. J. Barrett, R. G. Wedding, C. N. Bean, and many younger men. The attendance of such men insures the success of the society; and by the way while speaking of New Baymus we will venture two to one that some of her representatives are awarded some of your gold premiums at your prospective HERALD fair.

Mr. Henry Hurt is the happiest man in this neck of timber—it is a boy.

Mr. B. F. Smith has his last flat-boat loaded with 130,000 hooppoles, and now he prayeth for rain. His boat is lying at Barrett's Ferry.

Not long since Mr. Geo. Allen and Ed. Oldham went to Litchfield to procure a marriage license for the latter and a widow. They were all of Grayson county. While in Litchfield Mr. Allen procured an order of court for the review of a road, (now Mr. Allen nor Mr. Oldham can read writing) so when the supposed license (which was in fact the road order referred to) was given to the officiating clergyman, old uncle Richard Taylor, who is stone blind, the mistake was not discovered, and the twain were made one flesh by virtue of that road order. Nor was the mistake discovered for a considerable length of time, and—and—and—Oh what a catastrophe! Youngsters, take warning from this and learn to read, or you may suffer a like fate.

Success to the HERALD, long may she wave.

T. N. QUIRE.

Rosine Items.

ROSINE, KY., Feb. 6th, 1880.

Editor Herald:

I presume that more than one of the HERALD's correspondents will inform its many readers that a heavy snow fell the other day, therefore, I deem it unnecessary for me to notify them of the fact.

David Liles, living in the Elm Lick neighborhood, died on 1st inst., and was interred in Mt. Pleasant grave-yard the following day. He was 80 years of age, and served in the war of 1812; was three times married, and was the father of 21 children, some of whom live in this part of the county, some have emigrated West, while others (the larger number,) have gone on before. Notwithstanding, Mr. Liles' extreme old age, it was thought 6 months ago that he would likely successfully "battle with time" for another "decade," but at that time he commenced rapidly to "fail," and gradually grew feebler and feebler.

"Till like a clock tired of beating time,
The weary wheels of life stood still."

The public school at this place closed last Friday. The globe offered by the teacher as a premium to the pupil furnishing the best geographical drawing, was awarded to Miss Ettie Otto.

I notice in last week's News that the Post Master of this place, says he has heard persons say that they had asked you to discontinue to send them the HERALD, and that you had not done so. Of course I am not in a position to deny this—you yourself know whether or not this is correct. One thing, however, that I do know, is that copies of the News are sent to parties here who never subscribed for it. Why does not the News correspondent tell all the truth? It is not strange that more numbers of News should be sent to this district than the HERALD, when it is remembered that the Republicans have about one hundred majority in this district. I venture the assertion that there are more paid-up subscribers to the HERALD than to the News even in this Republican district that the News is constantly referring to.

A few days since a son of Mr. Wesley Raley came very nearly losing his life from epistaxis, (bleeding at the nose) but fortunately a remedy was resorted to, which never fails, and for the benefit of those who may be similarly affected, I send it to the readers of the HERALD. The treatment is simply this: Have some one (the more ignorant the better) to read 3 times in the hearing of patient the 6th verse of the 16th chapter of Ezekiel, and if it fails write to

AGRICOLA.

THE notion that high salaries secures for the State the services of the ablest men is a delusion. For many years past salaries have been going up, while there has been a steady falling off in the average ability of many classes of public officers—notably so in that of our Judiciary. What a step, for example, from Chief Justice Robertson or Elijah Hise to some of the judges of the court of appeals in later times! The truth is, the effect of high salaries is to cause a fierce scramble for office, and it too frequently happens that the boldest and least scrupulous gamester is the successful contestant. In a tight such as this modest, merit sees that all the chances are against it, and very often it declines to enter the contest at all.—Lebanon Standard.

THE Hartford HERALD, always enterprising and progressive, proposes to hold a corn and tobacco fair on the 6th inst., for the distribution of premiums for the best samples of either product presented by any paid up subscriber. The samples of tobacco must contain ten pounds, and the samples of corn thirty ears. The awards will be made by a committee of disinterested gentlemen. Fifteen premiums are offered, nine on tobacco and six on corn; five $25, five $10 and five $5. This opportunity is extended to any one in Ohio, Daviess, McLean, Muhlenberg, Butler, Grayson, Breckenridge or Hancock, who paid his subscription prior to the 2d instant. The HERALD's last fair proved a decided success, and this one promises to be equally or even more successful. The columns of the HERALD have sufficiently proven that when John P. Barrett takes hold of anything in the newspaper line he makes it go.—Messenger and Examiner.

Louisville Leaf Tobacco Market.

LOUISVILLE, KY., Feb. 7th, 1880.

WM. J. LEWIS, Secretary Tobacco Board of Trade, reports as follows:

Owing to unfavorable weather, receipts have been quite small, only 300 hhds against 785 hhds last week.

Sales for week amount to 611 hhds, of which 275 hhds was new tobacco, most of which was from Kentucky river district.

Sales for the year amount to 4,259 hhds at the Board of Trade Warehouses.

Market strong for all kinds, particularly so for dry red tobacco, not fired.

Quotations for lower Green river kinds: Trash, 3 to 3½; common lugs, 3½ to 3¾; good lugs, 3¾ to 4½; common leaf, 4½ to 6; good leaf, 6 to 7½; fine leaf, 7½ to 9. These figures are for dark tobacco in good order. For red or yellow kinds, ½ to 1 cent higher than above for low grades, and 1 to 3 cents higher on medium and best grades.

Factory Girls

And all others who live a closely confined life and take but little out-door exercise are very much endangered. Many girls in their teens are compelled to work in such places and thus compromise their health at the most critical period of their lives. Their cheeks soon become pale and bloodless, the eyes are dim and languid, their brain is dull. They complain of headache, pain in the back and joints, loss of appetite, they are cross and fretful, have hysterical symptoms and are losing strength daily. If this condition is not remedied you will become a feeble, careworn wreck, unfit for any of the duties of life. But you can be cured while at work, by the use of English Female Bitters, a powerful female restorer and tonic.

A CONSTIPATED HABIT

Is quite difficult to cure. If you lead a closely confined life. The habit should not be permitted to run into a chronic condition. It is apt to occur among sewing machine women, clerks, students, professional men, etc. This condition leads to headache, acid stomach, heartburn, billiousness, fevers, indigestion, loss of appetite and many other diseases.

Bailey's Saline Aperient will relieve you of all the above troubles, while as a purgative it is cheap and the most pleasant medicine you ever used.

It cleanses and cools the stomach, opens the bowels and regulates the flow of bile.

VENI, VIDI, VICI.

So it is within the hearts of the people, so speaks that wonderful Day's Ague Tonic. Its equal has never been known for the immediate eradication of all species of chills and fever. The cures are prompt and permanent. The remedy contains no deleterious drug; produces no unpleasant symptoms; is pleasant to all stomachs; is a powerful and never failing antiperiodic; cleanses and tones the stomach; opens and improves the bowels; unloads the torpid liver; opens the pores of the skin; cures every species of malarious diseases; all without the use of any other medicine. If you have a case of chills; a periodical headache, a severe sunpain; a protracted neuralgia, try Day's Ague Tonic. It never fails. For sale by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro. 6-2t.

Mrs. Partington Says

Don't take any of the quack nostrums, as they are regimental to the human cistern; but put your trust in Hop Bitters, which will cure general dilapidation, costive habits and all comic diseases. They saved Isaac from a severe extract of tripod fever. They are the ne plus mum of medicines. 5-2t.

Gilbert Tobacco Warehouse.

LOUISVILLE, KY., Jan. 1, 1880.

DEAR SIR:—After returning our thanks for past favors and wishing you a prosperous and happy new year, we take this method to announce to you and the public, that we have withdrawn from the "Tobacco Board of Trade," and in doing so, we have not a word to say against it; it was a good institution in "its day." Recently it has been guilty of some follies that we did not approve but protested against, hence we are involved in no vexatious and expensive lawsuits with any of the buyers.

The fees for selling tobacco, to both buyer and seller, may, and perhaps were, not too high at the time of their adoption (soon after the war) when labor, rents, money and in fact everything was high, and at a time, too, when it was almost indispensably necessary to employ traveling agents; now since there has been quite a depreciation in value of everything, and especially since the tobacco market of Louisville is so well established and known to be the leading market for all shades and grades of tobacco, and there are so many avenues of information opened up, and leading to almost every man's door, nequalntiug him daily with the state of the market, etc., we can see no good reason for continuing the old expensive custom of employing men to canvass the country soliciting consignments of tobacco. Therefore we have concluded to dispense with the services of that class of gentlemen above alluded to, and appropriate their salaries in another direction, or, more properly speaking, leave it where it legitimately belongs, in the pockets of the seller.

We can do this only by reducing our fees, or by a system of rebate, either of which was a violation of the rules of the "Board of Trade." Another rule of the "Board" is to deduct ten pounds for samples, this we think is not right, but like all other rules, members are bound to respect it, or abide the consequences of a violation.

We think we have given reasons enough for withdrawing from the "Institution," together with an inborn feeling to conduct our business in our own way, subject only to the approval of our own conscience and those for whom we transact business.

All tobacco received after this day we will sell at a reduction of 50 cents each to seller and buyer. Rejection fee will be $1.50 instead of $2.50 as heretofore. We will make no deduction for samples, instead of 10 lbs. as heretofore.

Soliciting a liberal share of your patronage, we are,

Very Respectfully yours,
GILBERT, HUDSON & Co.

FREE BOOKS TO SUBSCRIBERS.

Having made arrangements to club the HERALD with the Cincinnati Weekly Commercial we announce that we will furnish the HERALD and the Cincinnati Weekly Commercial, one year for $2.50 and WILL GIVE AS A FREE PRIZE TO EACH YEARLY SUBSCRIBER under this clubbing arrangement ANY ONE BOOK HE MAY SELECT from the following famous works—postage paid and FREE OF ALL COST—the books being Harper's Editions, UNABRIDGED, beautifully printed on good paper, in paper covers:

1. "Jane Eyre," the celebrated novel which made Charlotte Bronte's fame.
2. "The Last Days of Pompeii," Bulwer's historical romance of universal popularity, the most fascinating of his productions.
3. "John Halifax, Gentleman." Miss Mulock's masterpiece; a story of the sorrows and triumphs associated with low birth and iron fortune.
4. "The Posthumous Papers of the Pickwick Club," the work that gave Charles Dickens his celebrity; the most humorous and always the most popular of his books.
5. "The History of a Crime." By Victor Hugo. The terrible narrative by the great French poet, novelist and historian of the Crime of Louis Napoleon in strangling the liberties of his country.
6. "The Right Honorable Benjamin Disraeli, Earl of Beaconsfield," with two portraits—the life of the Premier of England, setting forth the romantic vicissitudes of his intensely interesting career.
7. "Eothen." By Elexander William Kinglake. One of the most charming narratives ever written, full of pen-pictures of life in the East, including admirable accounts of personal experience in Egypt and the Holy Land.
8. "Journal of the Plague in London." By Daniel Defoe, author of "Robinson Crusoe." The true history, by one of the most distinguished writers in our language, of the mysterious and awful visitation of the Plague to England.
9. "Poems of Wordsworth." Chosen and Edited by Matthew Arnold. The most popular and select edition of the works of one of England's greatest poets, whose writings owe their celebrity largely to the excellent understanding they display of the sentiment and scenery of country life.
10. "A History of Our Own Times." By Justin McCarthy. An important historical work, admirably adapted for the combined entertainment and instruction of youth.

It will be seen that these books comprise a wide range and striking diversity of the most brilliant and pleasing productions of modern authors, including Novels, Travels, Poetry, Biography and History—so that all tastes may be consulted and each subscriber will be embarrassed only by the riches of the variety in selecting his favorite book for a FREE PRIZE.

Subscriptions payable in advance, and the Free Prize Book must be ordered at the time the papers are subscribed for. BARRETT & BROTHER, Publishers Herald.

—S. D. Duke has a cow with twin calves.

—Call at the Hartford House and see the genuine machine.

—We learn that Ignatius Wimsatt is very sick with pneumonia.

—Wm. G. Eades, of Owensboro is in town selling the White Sewing Machine.

—For sore throat, gargle with Piso's Cure, mixed with a little water. Relief is instant. 1-2m.

—If you want to see a crowded stable just walk around to Henry Fields' on a public day.

—Susie, little daughter of Thos. J. and Charlotte Lowe, died last week of measles and pneumonia.

—BORN, to the wife of Eugene A. S. Maddox, January 28th, 1880, a son, Forest—weight, 10 pounds.

—Mr. T. Larkin Griffin is quite sick with a combination of diseases, but is not thought to be dangerous.

—Our Post Master is sick with the (Beaver) Dam measles. He "coteh 'em" through the telephone, we guess.

—A little daughter of Wm. H. Taylor is quite sick, and her recovery doubtful. She had measles and mumps and then took pneumonia.

—Subscribers to this paper for 1880, who pay in full for the year, get a valuable book of 160 pages, free. Call early pay up, and obtain the premium. tf.

—There have been 109 cases of measles in town up to this writing in the last few weeks. In addition, there have been several cases of the mumps and whooping-cough. So far there have been no deaths from these diseases.

—All persons indebted to Dr. J. E Pendleton by note or account, before Jan. 1st 1879, are requested to call at my office, upstairs opposite HERALD office, and settle the same.

CHAS. M. PENDLETON,
51 tf Collector of claims.

—We will sell our best coffee at 20 cts. per pound. A No. 1 Daviess county whisky at 50 cts. per quart, We also have a lot of ladies' and men's overshoes at or near cost.

BEFORD, KY. 4 3t.

—The second session of the Hartford Academy, in charge of Malcolm McIntyre, A. B., as principal, will begin next Monday. This session of the school will be taught at Masonic Hall. See his advertisement in another column.

—The 2d quarterly meeting of the Hartford Circuit, of the M. E. Church, was held at this place on last Saturday and Sunday. Rev. G. H. Hayes, Presiding Elder, was present and quite an interesting meeting was held. On account of sickness in town the meeting was not protracted.

—"The Home Guide, or A Book by 500 Ladies," is a volume of 160 pages, containing 1,000 practical recipes and hints on Cookery, the Household, the Toilet, the Sick Room, etc., a copy of which we present to every subscriber who pays in full for 1880. Improve this opportunity. 1-tf

—We regret to chronicle the death of Mrs. Julia McDowell, wife of Mr. M. P. McDowell, which sad event occurred on Sunday, February 1st, 1880, after a long and painful illness. Mrs. McDowell was a lady of the true type, kind to her neighbors, affectionate to her husband and devoted to her children. Among her sons whom she has lived to raise to manhood, is Mr. Seth McDowell, clerk in Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro's. drug store.

—The Ohio County News says that Sanderfur and Mortou expect to visit the new school house again and camp out to save travel. Now let the HERALD suggest that Senator Hill be asked to have a special act of the Legislature passed to continue the present trustees in office and empower them to levy an additional tax to build their camp and provide for their mantenance.

2ND TIPP.

—We, the trustees of school district No. 17, take pleasure in certifying that Mr. Andrew Williams, in teaching the school of said district, which closed today, has given entire satisfaction. We also certify that we are well pleased with the order and time kept in said school, and therefore take pleasure in recommending him to the public as a teacher.

February 7, 1880.

—Mr. E. S. Edgerton respectfully informs the citizens of Hartford and vicinity, that he intends to remain at this place and carry on the painting business in all its branches, house, sign and carriage work, graining, paper hanging, &c., done in the latest style. All work guaranteed to give satisfaction. All favors in his line will be thankfully received, and promptly attended to.
42-tf. E. S. EDGERTON.

—Mrs. A. C. Ellis was desirous of having her husband take a premium at our fair on Friday last, but could not get him to compete. Her husband was to have a premium, she was not to be out done, so calling in Dr. J. E. Pendleton to her assistance, she was able to present Mr. Ellis a fine boy. Mr. Ellis was prouder of this than he possibly could have been of a premium at our fair. He has christened him Wayne Griffin, in honor of our popular druggist.

—Bargains in all wool cashmeres, at Anderson's Bazar.

—Go to Ford's drug store and examine the new No. 8.

—Igleheart will sell the best machine for the least money.

—King will take good notes and old machines in part pay for a genuine Singer.

—Igleheart wants to exchange several new machines for horses or young cattle.

—If you want the best sewing machine made, buy the new No. 8, Wheeler & Wilson.

—Why buy an inferior machine when you can buy the genuine Singer for less money?

—Why buy a common machine when King will sell you a genuine Singer for less money and on as good terms?

—Why buy a second-class machine from a stranger when you can buy a genuine one at home on better terms?

—Thomas Brothers, Hartford, Ky., have a variety of premium seed corn for sale. Give them a call and improve your bread and stock corn.

—Turkeys, chickens, all kinds of skins and hides wanted, for which we will pay cash or goods.

W. H. WILLIAMS & SON.

After the present supply is exhausted, ladies' muslin underwear cannot be sold at anything near the prices they are now at, at Anderson's Bazar.

—Thos. C. Snell, Esq., has contributed to our cabinet of curiosities some fine specimens of quartz, petrifactions, &c., which he procured on a recent visit to Warren county.

—Foster & Hill work with a will. Their customers to please, and they succeed admirably. They keep a fine assortment of groceries and sell at prices as low as the lowest.

—John T. Wedding says that a pair of shoes for yourself, your wife and child will cost just $1 30 for the lot, at least that is all they cost him at Anderson's Bazar, last Friday, and he wants it put in the HERALD.

—Wm. T. Woodward, living about four miles from town, lost his house and all its contents on Saturday night. The family were not at home, and consequently nothing was saved. Mr. Woodward had a policy on his house and furniture for $1,000.

—People are learning that it is cheaper to take their horses to Fields' stable where they are taken care of, than to let them stand out in the cold winter wind and mud, and occasionally break loose, leaving the owner to plod his weary way home afoot.

—Wm. G. Eades, of Owensboro, representing the White Sewing Machine, has opened an office in W. H. Eidson's Jewelry Store, where he will remain for an indefinite time. Persons wanting anything in the Sewing Machine line will do well to call. The ladies are especially invited to call and examine this machine.

—Mr. Rob't Davis brought us a piece of poplar plank, yesterday, sawn from a large log and a considerable distance in from the surface. It has the mark of an ax six inches broad, which had completely healed over and which had been made there at a very early day. It appears to have been made with a very wide bladed ax, wider than they are now made, as the whole six inches seems to have been made at one lick as it is quite smooth.

—Judge J. Wesley Duke, of Rockport, died on Thursday of last week after an illness of one week, from pneumonia. His remains were interred by the grave of his first wife, in the grave yard at Milton Taylor's last Saturday. Rev. G. J. Bean held funeral services at the grave. Judge Duke was a member of the Methodist church and a very exemplary man in every respect. He leaves a wife and two children at home, a married daughter near Cromwell and a son in Evansville. Judge Duke filled many positions in life. He was elected assessor in 1854 and made a faithful officer. He filled the position of Police Judge, of Rockport, and was, for a long time prior to his death, the acting post master there. He had a host of friends and relatives who will mourn his loss.

PERSONAL.

J. P. Sandefur returned from Frankfort last Saturday.

Miss Anuie Hardwick, who has been quite sick with measles, is recovering.

Hon. E. D. Walker, of this place, one of the best lawyers in Southern Kentucky, has been in Louisville for a week past on legal business.

Mr. John F. Head, of Daviess county, was present last Friday at our Tobacco and Corn Fair, and bore off the first premium on cutting leaf.

Prof. V. M. Metcalfe, of Hopkinsville, was present at our fair last Friday, and addressed a large number of the yeomanry of our county on the subject of agriculture, fertilizing, etc.

Henry Harrison, Esq., of Calhoun, Ky., representing the wholesale whisky house of J. T. Welch, was in Hartford last Friday. He represents one of the best houses in the country, and by his honest dealing, has built up a good trade in this section.

Friday last witnessed the departure of Miss Ruth Thompson for her home near Owensboro. Miss Ruth has been attending school at this place for several months past, and her sweetness of disposition and true worth of a lady very much endeared her to the people here, all of whom regret her departure from us.

Messrs. Henry Glover, of the Louisville Tobacco Warehouse, Rob't P. Hare, of the Falls City Tobacco Warehouse, W. H. Webb, of the Pickett Tobacco Warehouse, Geo. H. Simmons, of the Planter's Tobacco Warehouse, W. H. Murphy, of the Boone Tobacco Warehouse, and J. P. Vaughan, of Vaughan & Co., redriers and rehandlers of tobacco, Louisville, were in attendance at our Tobacco and Corn Fair last Friday.

R. C. Duncan, the boss drummer of the Green River Country, is in town, the guest of the Hartford House. Mr. Duncan represents the wholesale grocery house of Johnston, Newman & Co., Louisville.

Messrs. J. S. Smith, of the firm of C. E. Dickinson & Co., Indianapolis, manufacturers of school, church, office and bank furniture, and Joshua McKenney, of Evansville, general agent for same, were in town a day or two this week. The object of their visit here was to furnish our new school building.

Col. Ion B. Nall, the polite, popular and gifted editor of the Farmers Home Journal, Louisville, was a visitor at our fair last Friday. After the premiums had been awarded, Col. Nall awarded a copy of the Farmers Home Journal to Mr. D. S. C. Tichenor, of Beaver Dam, as having the next sample of cigar wrapper tobacco.

Death of A. H. Cummins.

Last Monday morning at 4 o'clock the dark mantel of death enshrouded itself around the form of our faithful old associate and brother typo, Mr. A. H. Cummins, when his generous heart ceased to beat and his eyes closed in death. For a week past he had been prostrate with pneumonia, and only a short while before he breathed his last, as we sat by his bed-side and watched him struggle for life, our mind carried us back to our past pleasant associations with him, and our heart was only more saddened to know that he was so near his life's end, but as "life is uncertain and death is most sure," his demise was not unexpected by those who knew of his critical condition.

He was born in Maysville, Mason county, Kentucky, in 1833, and was in the 47th year of his age, not being spared the time allotted to man—threescore years and ten. His life as a printer and newspaper man began in Maysville about 1845, serving his apprenticeship with Col. Sam Pike, in the old Maysville Eagle office, and being young and ambitious, he at the age of nineteen was a weekly contributor to some of the leading literary papers of New York City, and after manhood embarked in several newspaper enterprises of his own, and, like most printers, has experienced prosperity and adversity, and has at last been called to his final resting place with no vast accumulation of wealth.

That he was honest, faithful, industrious and talented, is well known by his contemporaries. In his private life he was kind, generous and noble, and all that we can do in the way of respect and solace is to follow him with our deep regret and sorrowing sympathy.

From 1875 he was an attache of this office off and on until 1877, when he became foreman, and remained as such until a short time before he began the publication of the Ohio County News, nearly a year ago, which paper he has edited with ability.

He has died here among numerous friends, and he now sweetly reposes in the bosom of his loved Kentucky.

The heart-cords of a loving wife and five children, and a venerable old father and kind mother have been pierced with agony, to be alleviated only by a happy re-union in a better world. By his death the fraternity has lost an able and experienced journalist, and a large circle of acquaintances a true and valued friend.

He is gone. Peace to his ashes!

The Last Call.

Those owing me livery bills are again notified to come forward and settle the same. I have to pay cash for corn, hay and everything pertaining to the livery business, and am compelled to have the cash from those owing me. Persons not responding to this cad will find their accounts in the hands of an officer for collection. HENRY FIELD.

Notice to Tax-Payers.

Mr. C. W. Phillips, Sheriff, is sick and not able to attend to duties, but has instructed me to make it public through the HERALD that persons who have not, must pay taxes due at once. The time is short, and the money must be collected and paid over, or the Sheriff and his surities will be ruined. He hereby instructs his Deputies not to pass any taxpayer who has not paid, without the money or property out of which to make it. GEO. W. BUNGER, D. S.

Persons who were subscribers at the commencement of the year and whose time expires during the year will be entitled to a copy when they renew their subscription.

An Industrious Hen.

Thos. D. Davis, of this town has a hen that laid an egg last Sunday and on Sunday night another each with shells, and also two more eggs with a thin skin covering. She is not an over religious hen and believes in the adage "the better the day the better the deed." She also had learned that the Methodist Quarterly meeting was in session and knowing the fondness of the Methodist preachers and stewards for chickens and chicken fruit, she was desirous of doing her full share to supply them.

A Beautiful Sentiment

He who forgets the spring from which he drank, and the tree under whose shades he gamboled in the days of his youth, is a stranger to the sweetest impressions of the human heart, and he who fails to buy his goods at Anderson's Bazar is unwise to his best interests.

Public Sale.

On Wednesday, February 18th 1880, at my farm, four miles from Hartford, on the Hardinsburg road, I will sell at public auction all my personal property consisting of horses, hogs, sheep, cattle, poultry, farming utensils of various kinds, a good wagon, buggy and household and kitchen furniture; also three good milch cows now giving milk, corn and pork and other articles too numerous to mention. Will sell any of this property at private sale previously. Terms made known on day of sale.

5 2t MILLIGAN WRIGHT.

Mill Property for Sale

One-half interest in valuable mill property, consisting of a grist mill and circular saw mill, situated on Stone river six miles from Murfreesboro, Tenn., and 28 miles from Nashville. These mills are new and first-class throughout; all run by water-power, all the year round, one of the best situations for a mill in the South; lasting water-power; convenient to market and railroads. Also, one-half interest in some well-improved land, good neighborhood and everything that could be desired. Will sell the mills or exchange for real estate in Kentucky or Tennessee. Address,

4-tf S. L. EWING, Louisville, Ky.

Central Grove.

CENTRAL GROVE, Feb. 6.

Editor Herald:

Our school, taught by Mr. L. P. Loney, closed on the 4th inst. Our school has been quite a success. The attendance has been good, 60 scholars enrolled. Average, 28. The order has been good. The scholars have advanced fast. We had eight scholars, aged from 12 to 16 years, who got through Ray's third book in arithmetic. They also advanced well in other studies. This is the second session for Lee at this place. He has given satisfaction during both schools, and we heartily recommend him as a successful teacher. I will say to you, Lee, persevere, and your prospects will be bright in the future. Lee, I wish you success with your studies at South Carrollton.

The Tan-bark Excitement.

"Alpha," from Spring Lick, says: "The action of the House of Representatives in abolishing the City Measurer of Tan-bark is certainly a move in the right direction. Before it passes the Senate, a petition to that honorable body will be forwarded praying for its passage. Shippers of tan-bark everywhere favor the move, and pray for its passage. ### An Elegant Preparation.

Designed to meet the public want for a harmless hair dressing and restorative, is found in Parker's Hair Balsam. It acts like magic, commencing at the very roots, removes dandruff and all humors from the scalp, and never fails to restore gray or faded hair to its original youthful color and beauty. Falling hair is immediately checked by its use, and it produces a growth of beautiful young hair, soft, glossy and luxuriant, that surprises everyone. These properties added to its exquisite perfume and purity of composition, render it the growing favorite of the toilet table everywhere. Sold in large bottles, at only 50 cts. and 1 dollar by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro., druggists generally. 2 cow 3m.

Dr. TUTT'S Expectorant!

IN 25CTS. AND $1 BOTTLES.

Its properties are Demulcent, Nutritive Balsamic, Soothing and Healing. Combining all these qualities, it is the most effective LUNG BALSAM ever offered to sufferers from pulmonary diseases.

DR. J. F. HAYWOOD,
of New York, voluntarily indorses it.

—READ WHAT HE SAYS:—

Dr. TUTT: New York, Sept., 19, 1877.
Dear Sir—During this year I have had one hundred cases of lung diseases, in the treatment of which I have used your Expectorant, and I confess my surprise at its wonderful power. During a practice of twenty years, I have never known a medicine to act so promptly, nor with such happy effects. It instantly subdued the most violent fits of coughing, and invariably cured the disease in a few days. I cheerfully indorse it as the best lung medicine I ever used.
J. FRANCIS HAYWOOD, M. D

A NEWSPAPER PUB. WRITES.

Office, Evening News, Augusta, Ga.
Dr. TUTT: Dear Sir—My little son, was attacked with pneumonia last winter, which left him with a violent cough, that lasted till within a month since, for his cure of which I am indebted to your valuable Expectorant. I had tried most every thing recommended, but none did any good until I used your Expectorant, one bottle of which removed the cough entirely. With many thanks, I am yours truly.
JOHN M. WRIGLE.

Had terrible NIGHT SWEATS.

Memphis, Feb. 11, 1871.
Dr. TUTT: Sir—I have been raising for nearly two years with a severe cough. When I commenced taking your Expectorant I was reduced to one hundred and sixteen pounds in weight. I had tried almost everything; had terrible night sweats, I have taken half dozen bottles. The night sweats have left me, the cough has disappeared, and I have gained fifteen pounds in flesh. I recommend it to all my friends.
With great respect, OLIVER RICE.

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS.

Reader, have you caught a cold? Are you unable to raise the phlegm? Have you an irritation in the throat? A sense of oppression on the lungs, with short breath? Do you have a fit of coughing on lying down? A sharp pain now and then in the region of the heart, shoulders and back? If so, our Advice is take at once a dose of Tutt's Expectorant; you will soon be able to raise the phlegm. In an hour repeat the Expectorant, place a hot iron to the feet, take two of Tutt's Pills. You will soon fall into a pleasant sleep and wake up in the morning, cough gone, lungs working freely; easy breathing, and the bowels moving in a natural manner. To prevent a return of these symptoms use the Expectorant several days.

FARMERS' ATTENTION!

REMEMBER THE

HARTFORD WATER MILL

We are prepared to do your grinding with dispatch. Do not be afraid of a crowd. We can grind 15 bushels of wheat an hour, equal to 360 bushels in a day and night, and we never have this much on any single day to grind. We can also grind from 25 to 30 bushels of corn per hour.

Our Mill is in fine repair, and we are prepared to grind by water or steam. So do not be afraid of high or low water, but come with the assurance of getting your grinding done on time to return home the same day. We have secured the services of a first class miller for grinding corn, and have ample room for all that may come to see us.

We will pay $1.10 per bushel for No. 1 wheat, and less, according to grade. Mr. A. D. White, the well-known and experienced Miller bosses the grinding of our wheat.

We have good stable accommodations for our customers who have to stay all night, or when the weather is bad.

Patronage solicited.

MISSION RIDGE, February 4, 1880.

Editor Herald:

The portable saw mill of Wilkes & Co., was moved from this place to saw a contract for Wright and Likens.

Mr. Wm. Shroader, of this vicinity, recently moved to Greenwell. We all regret his departure.

Mrs. Fide Wise, of Elm Lick, has come to this place to finish Mr. Geo. B. Thomson's school he being very sick at home. Mr. Thomson has taught the best school that has been taught here for several years

On last evening, a party of us, regardless of the depth of the snow, called on Mrs. Elmore, the noted fortune teller, to have our future revealed. We are all happy now in anticipation of what is to be.

Miss Bettie Hart, of Fordsville, is visiting friends and relatives here.

There will be a wedding in this neighborhood soon. We glory in that young man's spunk.

Miss Virginia Bennett.

"Early, bright, transient, chaste as morning dew,
She sparkled, was exhaled, and went to heaven."

Miss Virginia familiarly called "Jennie" was born in Hartford, Ky., June 1st, 1857. Died January 28th, 1880, at the age of twenty-two years, seven months and twenty-seven days. She was the second daughter of James B. and Ann Bennett.

Deprived, at a tender age, of the care and protection of a kind and indulgent father, she bravely girded on the armor of life, to assist her widowed mother in the struggle for the support of her younger sister and little brother. Never a murmur of discontent escaped her devoted lips, but with constancy smile lighting up her fair face, she devoted herself to the work of making home pleasant and bright for those around her. The music of her voice gladdened the heart like the happy trills of the nightingale, and breathed a spirit of harmony and love for all who came within its spell.

The soul of virtue and truth she was as modest as a violet, and in society was admired, admired and respected.

Christian zeal and constant meditation on piety that exists in pride, was hers, but a high, enduring trust in the strength of right too heaven-born in its nature to condescend to the petty cavils of religious bigots, but such as sustains and soothes the soul in its pilgrimage through time to eternity.

Fair and lovely, she diffused joy and love about her home, making it the sphere of harmony and peace, the connecting link between earth and Heaven.

Once the sunny sky of her bright young life was overcast by the dark cloud of death that descended to envelop the form of her fond young lover, who early wooed and won her young heart's warm affections. She bestowed them with bright hopes of future happiness. But love's bright young dream soon vanished into rayless gloom, leaving her sad heart to shed tears over the grave of disappointed love.

The dark and sombre cloud of sorrow that overcast her youth, left a shade of melancholy more eloquent than human tongue or pen to tell the sad, touching story of the disappointment of her young love. With noble fortitude, she resigned herself to the stern decree of Fate, patiently awaiting the time when hearts separated may throb in unison in the eternal state beyond. But "Jennie" is gone—the places that once loved to see her, shall now see her no more forever. No more you see her sunny smile on earth, it is faded into the sunlight of Heaven, to illumine the pathway of kindred and friends to the eternal mansions of light above. H. B. K.

Communicated.

Editor Herald:

In your issue of December 24, 1879, there was an article headed "A most disgraceful affair," which occured at Mosley's school house, district No. 46. I am under the impression that there was a misstatement of the affair. It seems rather a muessided article. The writer infers that only Mr. Greer's daughters are guilty of committing said crime. Had it been so, this is an error. The youngest, a mere child, was Mr. Greer's daughter. The other is one whom we have known from infancy and are thoroughly acquainted with her deportment as a pupil, and pronounce her as one worthy of praise. The girls, were, I suppose, engaged in trying to "shuck" the teacher, as has been a familiar custom for years, everywhere known, and cannot be regarded as a heathenish custom. The oldest girl was represented as being a coward, by the teacher, after she had once quit trying to take her to the water. This was sufficient to raise their courage, and we heartily congratulate them by saying hurrah for the girls. We also advise them to be courteous, kind and polite to their teacher. Studious, active and energetic in your studies. Hearts may be in the right place, yet, when the Christmas holiday chimes in across your pathway, then away with your books and studies.

Now, reader, do not charge me as being prompted by any motive of prejudice, malice or revenge to any of the parties, but simply the voice of justice, holding equal scales, crying my avengement shall be poured out upon the soul of him who would trod down the weak and innocent, nay, crush out the very quintessence of life which consists of an honorable mien, a spotless character, which, when destroyed, we have nothing more to live for. "Ah! he who steals my purse steals trash, but he who filches from me my good name makes me a wretch indeed." Oh, malice, thou hideous-eyed demon, why infest that sacred dominion that should be God's own temple. It used to be a custom among the Roman Gladiators to inflict such sufferings on the children of their captives through spite or revenge. Horrible thought. Could more wanton punishment be inflicted on children than be tied at the post and beaten? Just imagine if this had been done. Would not their cries have pierced the mighty expanse from earth to Heaven and been echoed back by the scowling vengeance of Heaven upon the perpetrator of this crime.

Was it the Chairman, one of the Trustees, or was it anybody that came up with a deadly club drawn, and said they only wanted one lick at them? Oh, how from our heart we pity that orphan whose mother died when young, whose father fought, bled and died for his country's cause, when but a helpless infant, six months old. Now, girls, I would say, may the virgin attend your pathway, may all such attempts to defame your character sink into nothingness, as this has done, and freely forgive those who would wrong you, as you wish to be given at a higher tribunal. AMICUS.

The Same Here.

The Frankfort Roundabout says: "The Frankfort boys keenly felt the neglect shown them by our home girls at the Leap Year hop and will keep the remembrance of it fresh in their minds the balance of this season. It is said that they were almost totally neglected—serving only as "wall flowers" —while attentions were lavished upon strangers. That an idea may be had of how they were treated, we will state that one of Frankfort's most popular society men told us that at one time there were thirty-eight couples on the floor, and only six of the whole number were Frankfort gentlemen. Leap Year hops will not be popular with the boys in Frankfort any more this year.

Dr. Coleman Resumes the Pastorate.

Mt. Carmel church (Ohio county,) on last night re-elected Dr. J. S. Coleman to her pastorate. The vote was unanimous and unusually large, over two hundred members participating in the election. A subscription was taken immediately, with results which most positively ratify and seal the call. The outlook is for preaching two Sundays in each month. Mt. Carmel is Dr. Coleman's "home church." His residence is in one mile of their beautiful house of worship. "Would you find the true character of a man, ask his neighbors." The acceptance of this call indicates the results of another. The prophecy may not be amiss, that the Dr. will soon be occupying two of the most inviting pastorates in the State. In the esteem of his people none could occupy them with such hope of large results.

AUBURN, Jan. 21. W. P. TAYLOR.

BUFORD, Ky. Our meeting is truly one of the most thoroughly interesting I have ever witnessed. There have been 57 new additions and 3 reclamations, 92 in all. The interest is unabated. We will baptize to-morrow. Bro. Taylor is still with me. Let all the glory be to God.

Jan. 26, 1880.

Jan. 31. Our meeting here closed last night with the most gratifying results. It has never been my privilege to be connected with a revival which in its effects seemed so fully to meet every demand of both church and community. The effects as they related to the membership of the church and all who had ever been members were truly marvelous. A more thorough revival I have never witnessed. There were sixty additions and thirty-six reclamations. Bro. W. C. Taylor has won golden opinions among our people here both as a preacher and a Christian gentleman. Well may he be styled his "Little Giant." It is no fulsome eulogy for me to say that a better or more appropriate series or sermons than he delivered here I have never heard from any man. He leaves here hosts of the most enthusiastic admirers and devoted friends, who gave a most substantial token of their appreciation in the very liberal contribution, made mostly in gold, to compensate him for his faithful and effective labors in our midst. It is me possible for a church to be left in a better condition. To God be all the honor and glory for ever and ever. —J. N. Coleman in Western Recorder.

A Mammoth.

Mr. James W. Gilbert, engineer for Moise, Barbour & Co. an inventive miller has just secured a patent for a model vehicle, a model of which may be seen and tried at the Exposition. It is what would generally be called a velocipede, but since it is worked by the hands and not by the feet, it is really a mammoter. There are two large wheels with hand cranks attached; between them is the seat, in which ladies or gentleman are equally comfortable. The guiding lever, worked by the feet, rests upon a platform in front and is connected by wires with the guiding wheel, a small one, in the rear. The power required is very slight, the rider's utmost force sending him along much faster than he could run. The new beginner can direct the course of the vehicle with perfect accuracy, as has been shown frequently at the Exposition, when gentlemen mounting the machine for the first time have spun around among the numerous columns with entire safety. The work required affords a gentle, healthful exercise for the arms and breast muscles, just the thing for men of business, whose legs get plenty to do, but whose bodies and arms shrival away for lack of use. Post and News.

The Worst We Ever Heard.

A school-boy got up and read a composition on "The Tree." He got as far as "This subject has many branches," when the teacher said "Stop! you have not made your bough yet." "If you interrupt me again," said the boy, "I'll leave." "You give me any more of your impudence, and I'll take the sap out of you," said the teacher, and then the regular order of business proceeded. —Baltimore Herald.

SOMETHING ABOUT CABBAGE.—The following statement concerning cabbage, that much abused vegetable, we find in an exchange.

Cabbage was thought of highly by ancient nations, and the Egyptians gave the cabbage the honor of letting it precede all other dishes; they call it a divine dish. The Greeks and Romans had a great affection for cabbage, and conceived the idea which I have myself, that the use of cabbage keeps people from drunkenness. I am persuaded the constant eating of certain vegetables kills the desire for alcoholic beverages. The Greek doctors ascribed all kinds of virtues to the cabbage. It was thought to cure even paralysis. The Romans thought even more of the cabbage than did the Greeks. They ascribed to it the fact that they could for six hundred years do without doctors, and Cato actually maintained that cabbage cured all diseases. The ancients knew several kinds of cabbage—the long-leafed green cabbage, the hard white, so much used in Germany for "saur kraut," or fermented cabbage, the curly and the red. This last seems to have held the place of honor, and was at first introduced by the Romans into Gaul or France, and then brought to Great Britain. Later the green-leafed cabbage was introduced. The Greeks were fond of aromatic seasoning—of oil, rasin-wine and almonds. They boiled or stewed the cabbage and seasoned it with cummin, coriander seeds, with oil, wine or gravy, making rich dishes of a vegetable which we now boil in water and reckon among the plainest food. Something like a remembrance of cooking cabbage among the old Greeks has come down to the modern Greeks, for they stuff cabbage leaves with dainty mincements and then stew them with gravy."

If parents could be brought to remember to how great an extent circumstances determined for themselves what they are, they would seek to place the circumstances around their sons the most favorable possible for their future. It is true we cannot create the circumstances that surround us, but we can wield them, we can handle them, we can so act as to get the greatest amount of good out of them. Here is the difficulty, viz: to train the young to make the best possible use of whatever may be about them. Needing wisdom, they must supply the need by hard blows, since they have not the wisdom to take advice. The reason they do not more generally take advice, is because the advice given is not adapted to their condition; the demonstration of which fact is found in their failure to take it. —N. Y. News.

A STRONG decoction of peach tree leaves is reported to be a specific for chicken cholera. Dose, one-half teaspoonful.

PEAR blight in several instances has been arrested in affected trees by syringing them with potash, and it has proven a preventive when applied to healthy trees.

A COAT of gum copal varnish applied to the soles of boots and shoes, and repeated as it dries, until the pores are filled and the surface shines like polished mahogany, will make the soles water-proof, and the leather last three times longer.

HARTFORD has only one church building, and that is without a sexton. It has a good newspaper, however the HERALD which, a measure, relieves the population of the censure which their lack of religious accommodations subjects them to. Capital Cornelia.

LEATHER belting can be permanently mended with the following cement: Melt together in an iron vessel gutta percha and pitch in about equal parts. Dry the parts to be mended with a hot iron and warm [illegible] apply the cement to the edges, previously shaved, and press the parts firmly together until set.

A FARMER tells us that lately he tested the value of corn put into hogs with the following result: He commenced with a lot of hogs weighing 175 pounds each, on the 20th of September. He fed them two weeks, and when weighed found than at the price of pork then ruling, $3.50 per hundred, his corn so fed had brought him 40 cents per bushel. Then two weeks were fed with corn. He again weighed and fed them on two of the cold est weeks in November, and on weighing found that the corn fed, at the same price for pork, had brought him only thirty cents per bushel. He says this teaches him that hogs ought to be fattened early in the warm fall weather to get the greatest value for the corn fed.

I CAN say just more than [illegible] with the following declaration of principles and objects as announced by the Michigan State Grange at its late session:

It is our unalterable purpose, so far as possible, to remove all antagonism between capital and labor by a wise statesmanship; to oppose excessive salaries, high rates of interest, and extortionate percentage of profits by trade; to suppress local, sectional, and national prejudice, and all harmful rivalry; to encourage education among ourselves and for our children, by all the just means in our power, to induce farmers to take a more active part in the politics of our country, and to work for the country in the political cities to which they belong, putting down bribery, corruption, and trickery, and to see that honest men, who will unflinchingly stand by our industrial interests, are nominated for positions of trust and carry out the principles which should always characterize every patriot.

To get angry over trifles is childish; to rave furiously is brute-like; to cherish wrath is akin to the ways of the devils, but to suppress an angry impulse is manly—it is wise and altogether lovely. Many of us entertain a sort of a notion that we approach more or less nearly to the character of angels; while angels, possibly, look at us as approaching more or less nearly the character of devils or brutes. When a man kicks a good horse with his heavy boots, what shall we call him? When a man curses the laziness of his hands because they favor themselves during the heat of our hottest days, though the hay or grain suffer, is he a devil or a brute? When a man vents upon his good wife and children the anger which has been aroused by a combination of aggravating circumstance in the field, he is both. There are two grand errors which we revel in, as if they were spring water in midsummer: One is our unwillingness to extend to others the consideration we demand from them; the other, that we are more interested in the faults of others than in our own. Exchange.

Ayer's

Sarsaparilla
Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and in every way the most effectual alterative medicine known or available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced so valuable a remedy, nor one so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ringworm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.
By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood, and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates and enlivens the vital functions. It promotes energy and strength. It restores and preserves health. It infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease whicharises from impurity of the blood need despair, who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial. Remember, the earlier the trial, the speedier the cure.
Its recipe has been furnished to physicians everywhere; and they, recognizing its superior qualities, administer it in their practice.
For nearly forty years AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has been widely used, and it now possesses the confidence of millions of people who have experienced benefits from its marvellous curative virtues.

GIVEN AWAY!
A Book to Every Subscriber.
Home Guide!
A Book by 500 Ladies.
Is the title of a volume of 160 pages, embracing about
100 Practical Recipes and Hints
ON
THE HOUSEHOLD,
THE TOILET,
THE SICK ROOM, Etc.,
Contributed by over 500 Ladies to the Home Department of the Chicago Tribune during the past three or four years. It contains more information than do the $1.50 and $2.00 cook books, beside possessing the important advantage over all others, of being Practical Experiences of Practical "Home" Keepers. These select, original and practical contributions from so many ladies, have never before appeared in book form, and this volume is the first and only compilation.
We have exclusive control of the book in this locality, and it can be obtained only through this Office.
A Copy of this Useful and Unique Volume will be PRESENTED TO EVERY SUBSCRIBER to the HARTFORD HERALD for 1880.
This is the Choicest Premium Ever Given to Newspaper Subscribers.
Something of real and practical value. The ladies will be delighted with it. Make up your subscriptions now. If your neighbors don't take the HERALD tell them of this offer. They all want the paper and the book. You get the Best Newspaper, and a capital, practical, useful book of 160 pages for the price of the former. 2tf
